

WHERE CAN I GET MORE INFORMATION ABOUT THE AUSTRALIAN FAIR PAY COMMISSION'S DECISION?

The Department of Employment and Workplace Relations is providing information on the Australian Fair Pay Commission's (AFPC) wage-setting decision through the WorkChoices Infoline and the WorkChoices website.

Employees, employers, representative organisations and community groups can get up to date advice and information on how this decision applies to their wages and conditions by calling the WorkChoices Infoline on 1300 363 264.

The Workplace Advisory Service and Workplace Relations Industries group will advise clients and stakeholders on the implications of the AFPC's decision.

The Work Choices website at www.workchoices.gov.au will also provide key information on the decision.

Historical or pre-WorkChoices awards and agreements will still be accessible through the WageNet website at www.wagenet.gov.au.

Information on the Workplace Relations Act 2006 and Workplace Relations Regulations 2006 is available at www.workchoices.gov.au/ourplan/legislation/.

The AFPC's full decision can be viewed on the AFPC's website at www.fairpay.gov.au.

Twelve Fact Sheets explaining various aspects of this decision can also be accessed through the AFPC's website.
